

Adding your certifications and licenses

Each one goes on your listing the moment you add it. Add the certificate itself and somebody here looks at it, which is what earns the verified badge.

1 Sign in and open your profile.

Go to yellowpagesrv.com, press Sign in at the top right, type the email you signed up with, and use the code or link that arrives. You land on your profile.

The screenshot shows the 'Tech sign in' form on the Yellow Pages RV website. At the top, there's a header with the Yellow Pages RV logo and a 'New to this?' link. The main heading is 'Tech sign in'. Below it, a message says 'No password. Type your email and pick how you want to be let in.' There's a text input field labeled 'The email you signed up with' containing 'yourname@example.com'. A green 'Continue' button is below the input field. At the bottom, there's a link 'Not signed up yet? Sign up.' and a 'Feedback' button.

2 Scroll to What you hold and press Add a certification or license.

It is the sixth card. Two things worth knowing before you start: they appear on your listing in the order you add them, so put the ones customers ask about first; and anything with an expiry date comes off your listing by itself when that date passes. Press + Add a certification or license and the form opens.

The screenshot shows the 'Add a certification or license' form. It starts with a dropdown menu 'What kind is it' with 'Training certification' selected. Below this is a text area with instructions: 'RVTI, NRVTA, RVSA, NRVIA, ASE, EPA 608 and the rest. Pick the one that trained you, and say whether you are certified or master certified. A state LP gas licence goes here too, with the state in the title.' The next section is 'Which one' with a dropdown menu showing 'NRVTA / RVTA'. Below that is 'Level' with a dropdown menu showing 'Master certified'. The 'Who issued it' section has a text input field with 'NRVTA'. The 'Number (optional)' section has a text input field. The 'Issued (optional)' section has a date input field with a calendar icon. The 'Expiry date, if the certificate has one' section has a text input field. At the bottom, there are four buttons: 'Save changes', 'See my listing', 'See my page', and 'Something wrong?'.

3 Say what kind it is.

Four kinds. Training certification is the body that trained you: RVTI, NRVTA / RVTAA, RVSA, NRVIA, ASE, EPA 608, ABYC, NABCEP, AWS welding, and an LP gas licence. Factory certification is a maker who certified you on their own equipment: Lippert, Dometic, Truma, Furrion, Dexter, Suburban and the rest. Chassis and engine is Cummins Onan, Freightliner, Spartan, Ford and Allison. License is a state license or anything else issued to you by name, typed as it reads on the paper.

4 Pick which one, and the level.

Which one is a list for the first three kinds, ending in Other, not on this list, which asks what it is called and puts it on your listing as something you say you hold until we add it to the list. A training certification then asks for the Level: Certified or Master certified, which is how NRVTA reads "NRVTA master certified" on your listing. Factory and chassis certifications have no level. A license has no list; type its name, such as Texas LP license, and its state.

5 Who issued it, the number, and the dates.

Who issued it is the body or maker or state.

Number is optional, for a certificate number or ASE test numbers. Issued is optional. Expiry date is the one that matters: plenty of certificates never expire, and a blank box is the right answer for those. If yours carries a date, put it in and the credential comes off your listing on that day, so nothing sits there making a promise you cannot keep.

Expiry date, if the certificate has one
mm/dd/yyyy

Photo or PDF of the certificate
Choose File | No file chosen

Without a document this shows as something you say you hold, which is still worth having. Owners looking for it still find you and can ring you to check. What it will not do is earn the verified badge, because there is nothing for anybody here to check it against.

☒ Show this document on my listing
Anyone on the internet can open it.
Black out anything you would rather not publish, such as a home address, before you upload.

Plenty of certificates never expire, and a blank box is the right answer for those. If yours does carry an expiry date, put it in and the credential comes off your listing by itself on the day, so nothing sits there making a promise you cannot keep.

Add it

Save changes | See my listing
See my page | Something wrong?

6 Add a photo or PDF of the certificate, and say whether owners can open it.

JPG, PNG, WebP or PDF, up to 5MB; a PDF is usually far smaller than a photo. Without a document the credential shows as something you say you hold, which is still worth having; owners looking for it still find you. What it cannot do is earn the verified badge, because there is nothing for anybody here to check. Show this document on my listing is ticked to start. Anyone on the internet can open it, so black out a home address or anything else you would rather not publish before you upload.

Expiry date, if the certificate has one
mm/dd/yyyy

Photo or PDF of the certificate
Choose File | No file chosen

Without a document this shows as something you say you hold, which is still worth having. Owners looking for it still find you and can ring you to check. What it will not do is earn the verified badge, because there is nothing for anybody here to check it against.

☒ Show this document on my listing
Anyone on the internet can open it.
Black out anything you would rather not publish, such as a home address, before you upload.

Plenty of certificates never expire, and a blank box is the right answer for those. If yours does carry an expiry date, put it in and the credential comes off your listing by itself on the day, so nothing sits there making a promise you cannot keep.

Add it

Save changes | See my listing
See my page | Something wrong?

7 Press Add it.

It says "Added. It is on your listing now." That is the whole save: unlike the rest of the profile there is no Save changes step for a credential, and Remove takes one off at once too. If the name is missing or nothing is picked, a line under the button says what to fill in.

8 Read the chip on each one.

Your credentials sit above the form, each with a chip at the right. Says you hold it means there is no document, or nobody here has looked at it yet. We have seen it means somebody here opened your certificate and it appeared genuine. Expired and taken down are the other two, and both come off your listing. If we read an expiry date off your certificate the card says so and asks you to tell us if it is wrong. Somebody here reads new ones within a day.

RVTI master certified
RV Technical Institute · no. EXAMPLE-0142 · expires 2027-10-14
We read that expiry date off the certificate you sent. It comes off your listing on that day. Tell us if it is wrong.
See the document

Dometic certified
Dometic · no. EXAMPLE-8871
See the document

ASE certified
ASE · no. A1-A8
No document yet. It shows on your listing and owners looking for it still find you. Add the certificate and it becomes

Buttons:
Save changes, See my listing, See my page, Something wrong?

9

This is what owners see on your listing.

Every training certification becomes a badge at the top with the body's name, RVTI, NRVTA / RVTAA, ASE, and a solid Master badge beside it for master certified. Factory and chassis certifications and licenses do not become badges; they are listed further down. The green Credentials verified badge is not something anyone ticks. It appears by itself when you hold at least one credential we have seen and none we have not, and it goes away if you add one without a document, until that one has a document or is removed.

Back to map

EM

Example Mobile RV Service

No reviews yet

Technician

Engine and chassis

Inspector

RVTI

Master

Airstream, Grand Design and Jayco specialist

Solar specialist

Credentials verified

Insured

Manufacturer warranty

Show phone number

Website

Full page

Directions

What they charge

Technician rates

Call out fee	$85
Mileage past 20 miles	$1.50 per mile
Labor	$135 per hour

Inspection pricing

Examples full Fifth	From $450
---------------------	------------

10

Further down the card, What they hold lists them all.

Every credential that is not expired or taken down, by name, with the issuer, state, number and "good through" the expiry, and See the certificate where you uploaded one and left the tick on. A line under the list tells owners these are supplied by the business, not issued by us.

Back to map

What they hold

RVTI master certified

RVTI Technical Institute · no. EXAMPLE-0142 · good through 2027-10-14

See the certificate

Dometic certified

Dometic · no. EXAMPLE-8871

See the certificate

These are supplied by the business, not issued by us. Expired ones come off automatically. A verified badge, where a listing has one, means we looked at the paperwork behind them.

About

I have been working on rigs for eleven years, the last six on my own truck. Most days I am somewhere between Bozeman and Livingston, and I carry enough common parts that a lot of jobs finish on the first visit instead of waiting on an order. If it is something I cannot do, I will tell you that on the phone rather than charge you to find out.

Did they get back to you?

Answered right away

No response

Yellow Pages RV does not personally vet the businesses

11 And on your page.

The same badges under your name, and a Training and certificates card listing each one as Seen with a tick or Stated, with a line explaining that Seen means somebody at Yellow Pages RV looked at the certificate, Stated means you say you hold it, and neither is a guarantee of the work.

Training and certificates

RVTI master certified
Issued by RV Technical Institute
Good through 2027-10-14

Seen ✓

Dometic certified
Issued by Dometic

Seen ✓

Seen means somebody at Yellow Pages RV looked at the certificate and it appeared genuine.
Stated means the business says they hold it and we have not seen it. Neither is a guarantee of the work, and plenty of good technicians hold no certificates at all.

Rates

Call out fee	$85
Labor	$135 per hour
Mileage	$1.50 per mile

Rates come from the business and can be out of date. Nothing here is a quote. Agree the price before any work starts.

Inspections

Pre-purchase, full - Fifth wheel	From $450
Includes roof and sealant. Fluid analysis extra.
Pre-purchase, full -	From $550

? Two things to know.

Insurance is a separate tick in the first card, Your name and badges, and has nothing to do with the verified badge. And if a credential of yours is taken down in review, a note from us appears on its card on your profile saying why; write to support@yellowpagesrv.com if you think that is wrong.